

CELEBRATING HUMAN RIGHTS DAY

10th December 2018

NATIONAL SYMPOSIUM

ON

“HUMAN RIGHTS Vs HUMAN DUTIES & RESPONSIBILITIES”

The 10th December is the day of new hope and aspiration for billions of people who has had been the victim of atrocities from the powerful people in the society. The universal declaration of human rights and its later covenants /documents enumerates the various aspects of rights which are basic and inevitable for human development. On the 50th anniversary of the UDHR, the UNESCO brought a declaration on DHDR (Declaration on Duties and Responsibilities) in 1998. It was realised that we have become rights prone and duties have vanished from our dictionary. Can we achieve the goal of Human rights without incorporating Duties and Responsibilities in our daily routine religiously?

With this concept and concern, the Chanakya National Law University (CNLU) is going to organise a symposium on the 10th December 2018 .This year, this day is more important for us as this year we are celebrating the Silver Jubilee (25th anniversary) of our human rights legislation: “Protection of Human Rights Act 1993”. It is noteworthy that this year, we are celebrating 70th anniversary of the UDHR and 20th anniversary of DHDR also.

All the interested persons, groups’ human rights activists, academicians, advocates, students are cordially invited to celebrated this occasion by participating and presenting our views in the deliberations.
